Men of Valor Ministry
Attn: Marcus Martin

March 21, 2006

To Whom It May Concern:

I was introduced to Vincent Johnson through Carl Carlson and the Men of Valor Ministry. I currently had a position available for a truck helper. The skills required for this position are learned through hands on experience. The only true requirements would be a good personality and good demeanor / attitude. Vincent Johnson satisfies these requirements. His desire to do the right thing and follow instructions is evident and his work ethic is an overall refreshing addition to our somewhat tenured group. In today's work environment finding someone with the desire to have a job, fit in and take on the challenges required is rare. Again, these descriptives fit Vincent.

I would be neglect at this point if I did not attribute his success at this point to a very evident and strong faith. He himself will tell you that that is what sustains him.

I would highly recommend other employers look at the product of this ministry with open eyes and open hearts, as what you may find might surprise you.

Yours truly,
